

Amy Colton, CDFA

Amy Colton is a Wealth Advisor with Forefront Wealth Partners and Divorce Consultant with Your Divorce Made Simple. She joined the financial planning industry after a successful career in sales, management and business development (including 20+ years at International Business Machines (IBM) as an executive in sales and management).

She is a Certified Divorce Financial Analyst (CDFA®) and Family Law Mediator.

For the past six years she has been working with individuals and couples going through divorce to help them negotiate the division of assets, child custody considerations, and financial and tax planning needs - both during and after the divorce.

She has created a unique process for helping people navigate divorce by combining the skills of a Certified Divorce Specialist, Certified Divorce Financial Analyst (CDFA®) and Family Law Mediator. This process is called "The Kitchen Table" divorce. It is a new way to approach divorce that saves time, saves money, and creates an amicable environment for win-win outcomes.

Having experienced three divorces of her own and the honor of guiding many couples through their divorces, she is able to educate her clients on how to best navigate this extremely emotional time.
